Negroes Plan
Picket Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro leader James Farmer notified the Democratic Platform Committee on Wednesday that civil rights supporters will demonstrate at the party's national convention next week in protest against what he called "the Goldwaterism found in both parties."

Farmer and other civil rights witnesses asked the platform writers to pledge new and far-reaching measures for Negro equality, as well as "total enforcement" of the sweeping civil rights law signed last month, and an affirmation of the law's constitutionality.

UMW Forced To Revamp

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is forcing the United Mine Workers to revamp the organizational system it adopted nearly 40 years ago to keep the union from collapsing.

And to some old time coal miners it's a sad reminder that the heyday of fiery ex-president John L. Lewis—and perhaps of the union itself—is long gone.

It was Lewis who solidified the system of appointing officers to "provisional" districts when the union fell on evil days in the depression years of the 1930s and nearly lost all its members.

CBS Offers Time
To LBJ, Barry

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. on Wednesday invited President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater to appear — jointly or separately — in a series of full-hour "Meet the Press" television programs.

The proposal by Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC board chairman, was outlined in identical telegrams to the Republican presidential nominee and to Johnson. He said it was designed as a substitute to actual television debates.

Charges Dropped
Against Fine

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — The government Wednesday dropped a charge against former Gov. John S. Fine that he conspired with a Kingston man to evade payment of $20,430 income taxes due from a Nanticoke company.

Judge William J. Nealon of U.S. District Court signed an order dismissing an indictment returned by a federal grand jury March 10, 1961, against Fine and Albert Biscantini, secretary-treasurer of the Newport Excavating Co.

U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Brown asked for dismissal on the ground of "insufficient evidence to warrant trial."

Greek, Turk
Units Return

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey and Greece announced Wednesday they are returning military units to the Atlantic alliance that were withdrawn when the two neighbors seemed on the brink of war over Cyprus.

Capitals of the North Atlantic Treaty organization had feared that the two NATO nations would come to blows and shatter the eastern flank of the West's defense line against Soviet aggression.

Senate Okays
Welfare Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the last big money bills of this session, carrying $7.69 billion for the Welfare Department and other agencies and purposes, received voice vote passage by the Senate on Wednesday.

The Welfare Department's $6,482,183,000 share of the bill includes a special $10-million fund for what its sponsors said may be "an exciting breakthrough" in the National Cancer Institute's war against the killing disease, leukemia of childhood.

Mild Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — A mild stock market advance slumped on late profit-taking Wednesday and the list ended with an irregular decline. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones Industrial average declined 1.07 to 841.78.

Threat
Made On Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of a threat on the life of Sen. Barry Goldwater, a plane carrying the Republican presidential nominee was diverted Wednesday from National Airport to Dulles International Airport outside Washington.

Whisked Away

A waiting limousine whisked Goldwater back from giving a speech in Springfield, Ill., away from Dulles Airport 28 miles from Washington.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul Wagner, said the senator's Lockheed Electra got orders in the air to switch from National just outside Washington, and land at Dulles.

But in Springfield Chief of Police Silver Suarez said it was a threat that Goldwater was to be shot.

Chief Suarez said that at 12:52 p.m. the Police Department had received a telephone call from a man who identified himself as Lt. Bruce Allen.

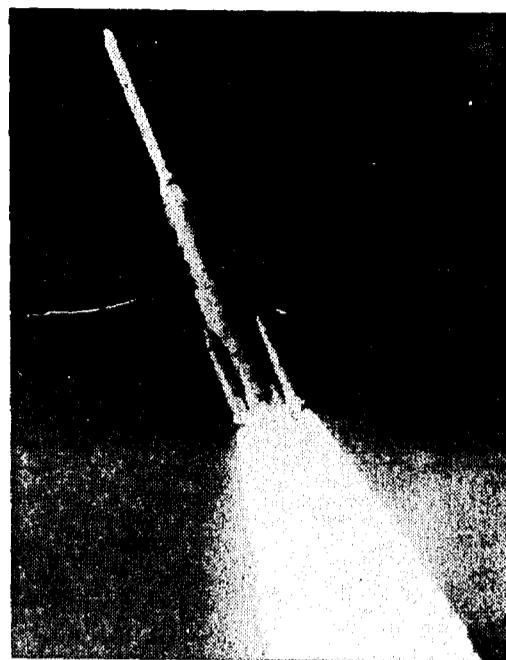

The caller told detective Sgt. John Nolan, "There is going to be a hit on Goldwater. Do you know what a hit is?"

Nolan's Answer

The chief said that Nolan had answered, "Yes, that he's going to be shot."

"That's right," the caller replied.

Records showed the call had come from a pay phone.

500 Teamster Members
Join Suit Against Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 500 Teamsters Union members went to court against Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa on Wednesday in the first open sign of large-scale, rank-and-file revolt since Hoffa's two federal court convictions.

Large Group

The large group of Teamsters from nine locals filed a petition asking to join a suit already on file, seeking recovery of all union funds spent to defend Hoffa and all other union officials involved in criminal trials.

The civil suit was filed several months ago by six members of Philadelphia Local 107.

Compassion Led To Oswald's Killing

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Ruby has told the Warren Commission that his compassion for Mrs. John F. Kennedy led him to shoot her husband's accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald.

He was pronounced dead by Dr. James G. Kitchen II, acting chief deputy coroner of Monroe County.

Warner, along with Trooper Paul Forester of Mt. Pocono State Police investigated the accident.

Warner said Hook was in apparent fine health when he left for work early yesterday morning.

The body was taken to the Gross Funeral Home in Mt. Pocono.

Tshombe Facing
Loss Of Bukavu

LEOPOLDOVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Communist-backed rebellion that grips most of the eastern Congo threatened Wednesday night to wrest Bukavu from the control of Premier Moise Tshombe's government.

Radio Messages

Fragmentary radio messages from Bakavu, a provincial capital midway between rebel-held Albertville and Stanleyville, said there was fighting in the streets; they indicated the Congolese army garrison was pulling out.

The garrison, totaling about 800 troops, last weekend drove off a rebel band that had penetrated Bakavu's outskirts.

There was speculation the subsequent uprising may have been staged by a rebel fifth column within the city, a former tourist resort crowded lately with nearly 80,000 refugees.

The radio accounts said panic developed when the fighting

South Viet Nam Faces Crises With Buddhists, Viet Cong

November Tabbed Big Attack Month

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam appears to be moving into its most dangerous crisis since becoming independent of France in 1954. Potential trouble mushroomed for Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's U.S.-backed regime.

Government Watched

Buddhist critics watched the government warily Wednesday night on the eve of the anniversary of the pagoda raids in which President Ngo Dinh Diem's security forces arrested hundreds of monks and nuns last year.

Student dissidents rallied again. About 200 challenged Khanh's right to the presidency, which he took over Sunday, and accused the United States of intervening in South Vietnamese domestic affairs. They held a noisy gathering in the student union headquarters. It was the first of a series of protest sessions scheduled to run into next week.

Primary Threat

The primary threat remains the Communist-led Viet Cong. Burgeoning Viet Cong strength forced Khanh to remark two weeks ago that "an enemy army is now inside South Viet Nam."

Intelligence officials believe Viet Cong battalions could effectively switch immediately from purely guerrilla operations to full-scale war. Some American experts think November may see a spectacular Viet Cong push, possibly even against the capital.

Cannot Win

Significant numbers of Saigon's top officials believe at this point the war cannot be won.

Khanh's government faces danger from other quarters.

His two biggest potential military rivals, Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh and Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, appear for the moment to have been neutralized.

Khanh has assured Khiem, who has been defense minister, a top spot in the new military government.

The internal squabble over legal fees has led one board member, Vice President John B. Backhus of Philadelphia, to demand Hoffa's resignation.

But, he said he would voluntarily stop using union funds to pay his legal bills until the board settles the matter.

SU Classes Start Sept. 9 But Without Lab Equipment

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Union School Board last night was informed that new science equipment needed to replace facilities torn out of physics and chemistry laboratories in the high school will not be delivered by the time school starts Sept. 9.

Not Until Sept. 21

The architect said the auditorium seats would not be delivered until Sept. 21. All the needed equipment is on order from American Seating and is part of an extensive renovation program planned for the high school.

Minh's popularity with wide circle of Vietnamese army officers, civilian officials, Buddhist and others remains high, and he still is a force to be reckoned with. The possibility of some new military power grab cannot be ruled out.

Khanh issued a temperate but pointed order of the day to his armed forces urging them not to get involved in politics.

"In accordance with military discipline, all fighting men, no matter what rank, do not let yourselves be exploited by political parties and religious groups and do not accept any leadership other than that provided by the armed forces, in order to devote yourselves entirely to the sacred mission of serving the homeland," he said.

Viet Nam's political parties generally have failed to get behind the government. Many party leaders dislike the prospect of indefinite military control.

Final specifications called for the rooms to be finished in plaster.

—Installing two beams costing $392 in the auditorium.

—Clearing and grubbing land located next to the baseball field at a cost of $1,150.

—Adding a $612 catwalk and ladder adjacent to the stage area to create more useable room. When the catwalk is installed stage ropes will be anchored above the stage.

—Spending $85 to close an opening in a darkroom in the physics laboratory.

Other Action

In other action, the board has admitted it is guilty of not living up to its contract with the school district.

Earl Groner, district superintendent, termed the situation "very serious" but said classes will definitely start on the scheduled date.

At a meeting in the high school, Groner said the American Seating Co. has agreed to supply temporary equipment in place of the new equipment they had agreed to have in place before the start of school.

Series Of Burglaries Probed In Stroud

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. Chief of Police H. W. Tebbs said yesterday he investigated a series of burglaries and attempted burglaries over the weekend.

For the third time within two months, thieves broke into the Trumatic Machine and Tool Co. of East Stroudsburg, RD 2 and broke into two vending machines taking an undetermined amount of change.

Tebbs said that the burglary was discovered Sunday morning and had occurred sometime Saturday night. Thieves entered through a window at the rear of the building.

Changed Mind

Also, a would-be thief who broke open the rear door of Von Brook's Gulf Service Station on West Main St., Stroudsburg Saturday night apparently changed his mind when he was greeted by a "German Shepherd police dog."

The owner of the station discovered the break-in on Sunday morning when neighbors called and informed him that his dog was outside.

Also, an unoccupied bungalow at Eagle Valley Corners in East Stroudsburg was broken into Saturday night.

Stroudsburg was broke into. A caretaker who noticed the break-in said he had no idea what had been taken.

The caretaker told police he would notify the owner of the building who lives in Philadelphia.

Depot Important Installation

To the average resident of the Pocono Mountains, the Tobyhanna Army Depot is a vague installation on the wind-swept plateau above Mount Pocono.

Most conceive of the depot as a group of warehouses staffed by Active Army troops, utilizing a few key civilians.

Most still think of it as a "signal depot," unaware of the enlarging functions of the installation over the past few years.

Actually, the depot first impresses the visitor with its huge proportions. Entering the main gate and cresting the hill by the permanent Army barracks, the warehouses loom in the distance like squat monoliths.

The warehouses—the largest of the depot's 99 buildings—are hunched in the center of 1,420 acres. They contain about 2,500,000 square feet.

Far from being a predominantly Army facility, there are 2,501 civilians at the depot, compared to 310 enlisted men, warrant officers and officers.

In function, however, the base is an Army facility. The civilians receive, store and issue general electrical and electronic supplies for the entire Continental United States Army and some of its overseas commands.

DeGaulle Remembers

President Charles DeGaulle of France, who pointedly abstained from ceremonies in Normandy commemorating the Allied landings of June 6, 1944, as usual attended ceremonies on Saturday, Aug. 15 marking the anniversary—the 20th—of the Allied landings at Toulon. There are both obvious and subtle reasons for staying away from the one celebration and leading the participants in the other.

D-Day was just not a French show. Gen. Eisenhower in a recent article in Match was generously vague: "I think I remember the naval forces included a (French) destroyer and several small craft flying the tricolor." There were also a handful of commandos and paratroopers, and the Free French guerrillas aided materially behind the lines.

But DeGaulle was purposely kept in the dark about the Overlord operation. He was permitted to return to London only two days before D-Day. Churchill forbade him to go to France. He was so Besides this, the depot fabricates and assembles, as well as maintains, communications systems.

About $24,000,000 is spent each year at the depot. Approximately $15,500,000 of this is for salaries and personnel benefits. The entire region benefits enormously from this great influx of money and subsequent purchasing power.

The total inventory value of the mission stock alone comes to $334,761,000, and another $1,200,000 is in depot operating stocks.

The thousands of government employees at the depot have always been known for their generosity in giving to charities. Since 1954, depot employees have dug into their pockets for $150,000 for charities.

On the health scene, depot employees have given 9,497 pints of their own precious blood to help others. There are 413 people at the site who have given a gallon or more.

The people of Monroe County and the Pocono Mountains deserve to know of these contributions to their economy and welfare. By knowing the full scope and range of the activities at the depot, popular misconceptions can give way to popular appreciation.

Walter Lippmann

angered that he made a radio broadcast to the French people only reluctantly. In his memoirs he recalls: "On June 13, in fact, I left to visit the bridgehead. For several days I had been prepared to make this trip; but the Allies showed no eagerness to make it possible for me to do so."

On the other hand, the Mediterranean landing now being commemorated enjoys the presence of the President and his Prime Minister, Georges Pompidou, who also was conspicuously absent at Avranches. The Aug. 15, 1944 landing was largely French. The attacking force included the best generals and soldiers of DeGaulle's new French African Army.

Throughout the war, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was suspicious of DeGaulle's motives, succeeded in denying the Allied political support DeGaulle coveted. A hough, sensitive man, DeGaulle still suffers the trauma of 20 years ago. It is unfortunate for the West that he does.

Roscoe Drummond

LBJ, Running Mate

By Roscoe Drummond

WASHINGTON — It looks like no effort at all when Pablo Casals, Whitey Ford or Peter Seller's are doing their work. You just sit back and expect everything to go as planned.

It's true in politics, too.

Hasn't everybody been saying that it is President Johnson's "right" to pick his own running-mate?

But not one Vice-President who inherited the Presidency in this century — Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, and Harry Truman — was able to pick his own running-mate.

Isn't everybody been saying that an incumbent President will be free to write his own platform on which he is going to be renominated?

But President Truman wasn't free to write his own platform in 1948. On the most controversial issue of all, civil rights, Mr. Truman wanted a moderate plank, but the convention bolted his leadership; many Southern delegates walked out, and Truman lost four Southern states.

Today Lyndon Johnson's decisive control of the Democratic National Convention — its machinery, its prospective platform, and its Vice-Presidential nominee — looks so easy that any President ought to be able to do it with the back of his hand.

What I am saying is that the best professionals make it look deceptively simply — like it wasn't anything at all. But the fact is that Johnson's controlling position in the Democratic party represents an unmatched political achievement in the twentieth century — and it testifies to unmatched political skill.

Teddy Roosevelt wanted a prominent liberal as his running-mate in 1940, like Albert Beveridge, but he had to take the inconspicuous and innocuous Charles W. Fairbanks. Coolidge wanted Sen. Borah, but the convention imposed Charles G. Dawes on him. Truman wanted Justice Douglas, but the delegates insisted upon Alben Barkley.

Mr. Johnson will not only control the Atlantic City convention at every significant point, but he will have smoothly achieved this dominant position in less than eight months in office, whereas Teddy Roosevelt and Harry Truman could not achieve it in three years in office.

This is why quick ascendancy, so apparently effortless that it is taken for granted, is the mark of an outstanding political professional.

The President may or may not have decided who will be his running-mate, but he has decided on the qualifications:

1 — A Vice-President capable of filling the Presidency.

2 — A Vice-President capable and willing to subordinate his personal wishes and ambitions to total service to the President. As Washington columnist Max Freedman has well put it: "The Vice-President has no political existence and certainly no political significance apart from the President."

3 — A running-mate capable of adding some strength to the ticket in many parts of the country and least likely to add weakness elsewhere.

Under these qualifications Mr. Johnson has ruled out Attorney-General Robert Kennedy and, to make the decision less burdensome, he has also ruled out Secretary McNamara, Ambassador Stevens, Son, and Senator Shriver.

It makes sense.

Furthermore, the manner relations between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Kennedy — relations which embrace respect, regard, and good will — have not been sundered by this decision.

There can be little doubt, I think, that the President will be greatly benefited by even acutely needs, Robert Kennedy's unorthodox assistance in the campaign. And will get it.

The Attorney-General is well aware that the memory and prestige of his late brother will be well served by the election of the President, especially if Mr. Kennedy helps bring it about.

Robert Kennedy has no need to put a limit on his political future and its most solid basis will come not from what anyone does for him but earning it all on his own through the elective process.

Mt. Pocono Rotary Plans Auction Sale

MT. POCONO — A country auction featuring the sale of a pony, lambs, and ducks in addition to numerous items associated with "country living", will be held in Mt. Pocono.

The affair will provide Mt. Pocono Rotary Club, sponsors of the project, with funds with which to continue and expand its Community Services projects.

Leading the community's Rotarians in this event is Dr. E.O. Headrick, Mt. Pocono physician and the club's Community Services Chairman. He was appointed by Albert Stets, current club president. Dr. Headrick conceived the project and expressed the hope that it will be the "First Annual Country Auction of Mt. Pocono Rotary Club."

Lino Morelli, Rotarian, and an auctioneer who now resides in the Poconos, will be the auctioneer. He announces that the gavel will come down for the start of sales-auction at 1 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 7, at the new Mt. Pocono fire hall and grounds.

Rotary officials expressed great appreciation for the cooperation of Mt. Pocono Volunteer Fire Company officials. "This is all for charity," Dr. Headrick expressed, "and with Rotary leading the way and with those fellows from our fire company backing us as they are, we're going to show this area's fine community spirit in action."

More details will be announced later. In the meantime, local citizens are invited to contribute to the supply of items to be auctioned. Many very interesting items are already on hand, including antiques.

Items will be accepted either as a "donation" or on a commission basis, according to Rotary officials.

It was urged that the theme "country auction" be kept in mind when offering items for sale.

Pickets Halt Truck Movement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Drivers at the Norwalk Truck Lines, Inc., here prevented two vandals—without trailers—from leaving for Lancaster yesterday. Pickets charged that the firm was trying to move its over-the-road operations to Lancaster, laying off long-distance drivers here.

The pickets, members of Teamsters Local 107, did not interfere with the company's hauling operations and permitted six trucks driven by local members to leave. The two tractors they blocked were driven by Teamsters members from Lancaster.

The pickets said Norwalk's drivers, at one time numbering 30, were now down to 13.

Rooney Protests To State 'Downgrading' Poconos

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Fred B. Rooney yesterday strongly protested against a proposed downgrading of the Pocono Mountain resort area by the Pennsylvania Dept. of Highways in its program of signing along interstate Rte. 80.

In a telegram to the State Secretary of Highways, Henry D. Harral, Rep. Rooney said, "I am greatly disturbed by an indication in your letter of August 13 to me that the vast Pocono Mountains resort region may be downgraded in permanent signing along Rte. 80. The Poconos represent the largest concentration of modern, convenient vacation-resort facilities in northeastern America, and a major part of the traffic flow along I-80 will undoubtedly be directed toward these resort hotels, motels, and business establishments.

"I fully realize that I-80 will be the most important east-west connecting route between the New York area and the midwest, as you say. But I urge you to take every precaution to make certain that the Pocono Mountains resort area, one of the most vital links in our effort to build a stronger and more stable Pennsylvania economy, is not bypassed in the information contained in interstate highway signs."

"Not Always Case"

Rep. Rooney referred to a section of Secy. Harral's letter, which said, "Although the Tannersville interchange presently represents the near terminus of the present facility this will not always be the case and our choice of the names used on the mileage signs between there and Stroudsburg must reflect the fact that I-80 will be the major east-west connection between New York and cities perhaps as far away as Chicago."

"Being cognizant of this fact makes us hesitant to sign this route with too much emphasis on the Pocono area, although they are important."

In the concluding section of his telegram to Secy. Harral, Congressman Rooney said:

"I agree that we should make every effort to avoid the proliferation of unnecessary signs along any interstate highway. But the concentrated nature of the Pocono Mountains resort region, should, rightfully, result in greater emphasis than would be given to other areas that are less populated by highly important resort facilities which attract thousands of highway users each week."

Rooney wrote to Harral two weeks ago after receipt of a petition signed by 60 local resort business owners objecting to inadequate information on I-80 signs.

Secy. Harral advised the congressman that present signs are of a temporary nature and indicated that permanent signing will be done simultaneously by the Dept. of Highways in 25-50 mile segments along interstate routes.

ESSC Enrollment Up; New Buildings

EAST STROUDSBURG—Everything good is happening at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Buildings are going up to accommodate increased enrollment; the legislature approved $1,153,916 as its share of the $2,410,897, 1964-65 budget and then approved an additional $165,000 in a surprise move.

This year the college will enter 625 freshmen students out of a fantastic total of 2,500 applicants. The total college enrollment for the coming year will be 1,931.

Added to this, the college is about to finish a highly successful summer session. 242 students were enrolled in pre-session, main and post session courses.

The curriculum has also been expanded to include graduate school courses in social studies, humanities and physical education.

Dr. LeRoy Koehler, ESSC president, said the present expansion plans call for the college to be capable to take care of 3,000 by 1970.

Dr. Koehler has been president of the 71-year-old institution since 1955 and has been a member of the college's staff since 1921. He came to ESSC as a social studies professor and became head of the department before assuming the duties of president.

During Dr. Koehler's tenure as president he has seen tremendous expansion at the college. Last year a new girl's dormitory was opened and this Aug. 12 bids were awarded for another girl's dormitory.

The two dormitories will house a combined total of 515 women students.

The completed building was named Linden Hall by the girls that occupy the building.

The new dormitory features rooms with individual furniture built in. Linden Hall also consists of two study rooms, a lounge and a pressing room on each of the three main floors.

The dormitory now in the first phases of construction will rise five stories and will house 300 girls. This dormitory is the first high rise building on the campus and will have an elevator. This project will cost $1,155,000.

Almost completed is a four-story dormitory planned to house 200 men students. When completed the building will cost $789,585. The building will comprise two units.

The larger will be four stories high with a full basement. It will contain 50 student rooms, a counselor's room and washrooms on each floor. The basement will house recreation rooms, a laundry, fall shelter, and mechanical rooms.

The smaller single-story unit will house the public lounge, office, public washrooms, laundry pickup and the manager's two-bedroom apartment with a private courtyard.

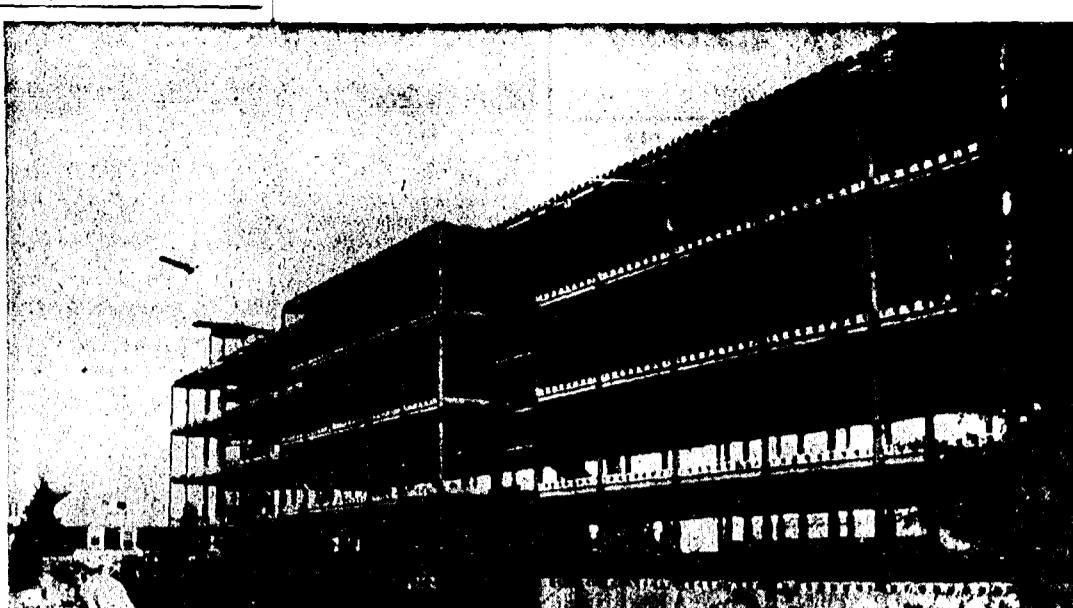

The new structures, which will complete a dormitory quadrangle, were designed by Rinker, Kiefer and Rake, a Stroudsburg architectural and engineering firm.

50 Per Cent of Budget

The college's new revised budget calls for expenditures of $2,572,911. Of this total the student body will contribute $1,233,985 in student fees — or about 50 per cent of the total budget.

The largest item in the budget is $1,171,969 scheduled for paying the college's 125 instructors and professors. Non-instructional personnel will get a total of $409,409. This group includes all administrative and maintenance people — including Dr. Koehler.

Summer Bossler Jr., college business manager, estimated ESSC students will pump an additional $338,400 into the local economy during the coming school year. Bossler said each student spends an average of $5 a week on off-campus activities.

MEN'S DORMITORY—This new $789,585 building on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College will house 200 male students when it is finished. The dormitory is expected to be ready for occupancy by January. The new building is part of an extensive expansion program taking place at ESSC.

PEN ARGYL—Approximately 4,915 public school students will start classes during September in the State Belt's two public school systems in Bangor and Pen Argyl.

The smaller single-story unit will house the public lounge, office, public washrooms, laundry pickup and the manager's two-bedroom apartment with a private courtyard.

The new structures, which will complete a dormitory quadrangle, were designed by Rinker, Kiefer and Rake, a Stroudsburg architectural and engineering firm.

Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Remembering all the fuss we make about the first Spring violets, it seems a shame not to at least make a passing reference to the wild flowers along the August roadsides that put to shame the cultivated flowers now growing tall and ragged in the gardens on which man has lavished so much care.

The trouble is I don't even know their names. As an old Girl Scout — quite old — we used to do all our flower-identification in the Spring. I can tell a heather from a Spring beauty and a violet from a cowslip, Dutchman's Britches and Quaker Ladies, but these are all little flowers you look under leaves for.

Someday I should take a course on the big, bold and beautiful Fall Flowers that splash across the landscape in great masses. Even the big dictionary color plate of wild flowers concentrates on Spring flowers, so I more or less have been making my own names.

Oh, I know Black-eyed Susans and goldendrod spilling gold all over the place, but I don't know what the yellow flowers are that look like little trumpets growing on a spike. Queen Anne's lace I know but not the star-shaped white flowers growing above heart-shaped leaves.

I can recognize the lavender of wild asters but not the great splashes of purple flowers that look as I'd imagine he'd be the night, and which may or may not be lupines. I suppose it's not necessary to know the names to enjoy the royal effect of purple and gold, but it seems ungrateful.

masses is a weed. But they're handsome just the same.

The moral seems to be that any flower that comes early and stays small and hard to find is a wild flower, but any flower that arrives late in the summer and grows in great

Working Mothers' Guilt May Be Unnecessary Load

By Roberta Roesch

Do you ever feel you'll never resolve the feeling of guilt you have because you're out at a job every day instead of being home on call for all of your children's needs?

Well, dry your tears, all you working moms! Let's face it! You never will! But sometimes we all let the fingers point and plague us a little too much.

When Sickness Comes

"My worst guilt comes," one mother tells us, "when one of the children gets sick in school and I can't be there at home. When the school calls me at the office I always feel I should be at home."

"My guilt complex comes from my own disposition at the end of the day," another woman points out. "Each day I say 'I won't get mad.'

"But then when I get home at night, I'm tired and impatient. Despite myself I scream at my girls and fuss about what they do."

At Vacation Time

"It's when the children have vacation that I always feel most guilty," a third mother adds. "I'm torn in two directions then because of my job and my home. Often I feel I don't do enough for the children I leave at home."

As we said before, all working moms, dry up your guilty tears, because, though we all feel guilty sometimes, the same things that make us feel guilty can happen even if we didn't have a job.

As one example, a mother who scrubs and irons all day can also be ready to scream,

Pillows, Pizza And TV Switch From Camp Fare

By Brenda Bress

Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council Representative, Special to the Daily Record From All States Encampment Twin Lakes, Mich. (Sunday)

— For the fast two days we have been having a lot of rain. It didn't stop us from working because we have plenty of crafts to work on before we start teaching them to others.

On Monday, Aug. 17, we will be meeting the leaders we are to teach. On Tuesday at 3 we will be meeting the leaders we are to teach. On Tuesday at 3 we will have our first break from camp, going into the city of Muskegon to spend the night at the home of the leaders. I can hardly wait to see a nice warm bed with a pillow. Most of the girls plan to have pizza, ice cream and soda and try to watch a little TV before we return to camp.

Many of the girls are thinking about a program we will give at our last campfire on Aug. 23. On Wednesday, Aug. 19, my troop will have our campfire and a program when we will receive our All States pin and badge.

Just thinking about the end of camp has started the girls to talk about home. We have been wondering what our parents and family are doing at different times of day. I don't think we are really homesick but we aren't far from it. It is now time for church and I must go.

County Superintendent's Aim: Vo-Technical School By 1966

STROUDSBURG — With 18 years of service behind him, John C. Litts, Monroe County superintendent of schools, seems more inclined to lay ground work for a county vocational school than to reflect on the accomplishments he has achieved while in office.

Speaking in his newly renovated, air conditioned office in the courthouse, Litts said he would like to see plans made for a vocational school before he retires in 1966.

"I would like to see this done so that in the course of three or four years it wouldn't be a dream but a reality that would soon come into being," the superintendent reflected.

"In all our school planning," he continued, "we can't lose sight of the fact that we have public schools for our children. Many times people lose sight of this fact."

"There is definitely a need for a vocational school. We should always plan to have our educational enriched and broadened enough to keep our dropouts in school."

"This kind of vocational training would definitely help our unemployment problem and would be a boost to our economy," Litts said.

Litts said he has watched the county school system progress from a rural dominated system — with 21, one-room classrooms — to one with four centrally located districts.

When he took office back in 1946, the county had a raft of one-room schoolhouses and high schools in Polk, Chestnuthill, Pocono, Tobyhanna, Coalbaugh and Barrett Townships, as well as, Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

"It took considerable talking and explaining to point out the value of having more pupils together in better buildings. When I took over, however, I had the advantage of having several consolidated districts."

After we closed the one-room schoolhouses, we had similar trouble trying to arrange joint districts. There is always a segment of the population that will object to change," the veteran administrator explained.

He explained in many instances the public had little to say about the changes in school systems because the changes were mandated by the General Assembly.

"Where there was permissive legislation—that means the districts had a choice—it was necessary for the county office to go out and sell the ideas to the public."

He pointed out there is no doubt in the mind of the majority of the public that joint and union districts have been successful... and served the purpose. The cost today for just the minimum requirements would be prohibitive for a high

New Students In Colleges Face Surprise

By GEORGE L. ZUCKER
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Eager freshmen will flock to the nation's college and university campuses again this fall. For too many, the experience will prove more of a shock than they expected.

Many will fail to survive the pitfalls awaiting them behind the ivied college walls, despite high school achievement and monthly checks from home.

Two Purdue University educators at the University's Barker Memorial Center set out eight years ago to learn why so many high school graduates falter in college. This inquiry into the nation's college dropout problem was begun by Prof. Robert F. Schwarz, 41, the center's director, and Prof. Howard D. J. Murdock, 49, who teaches chemistry.

Schwarz and Murdock set up a two-week course for Michigan City area college-bound graduates in the summer of 1956, calling it, "How to study in college."

The new course was advertised through a direct mail campaign and attracted only mild newspaper publicity. They had hoped 35 students would sign up. When Schwarz got to class that summer evening, he was greeted by 75.

Schwarz and Murdock feel the quandary facing many students entering college is the abrupt adjustment they must make, both social and academic.

As Murdock put it: "The freshman must conform to the 'they's instead of 'me's. No longer is Mom around to probe him to his books. His college instructors are not likely to remind him an assignment is due or even urge him to do it. The job of acquiring a college education, he will find, is his."

Their "How to study in college" course teaches the psychology of learning and the skills of acquiring knowledge and keeping it.

"Most of us are ill-trained in the art of learning," Schwarz said.

A child may spend most of his formative years learning how to write and, in subsequent order, how to read and articulate ideas.

school of 100 or 150 pupils." For the past year Litts has been deeply involved with the county school board and its efforts to formulate a plan for county school reorganization.

The county board has decided on a four-unit plan, after seriously considering rearranging the 17 county school districts and one union districts into a single administrative unit.

"It would be my opinion, that after the districts get their schools in order under the four-unit system, it would take very little transformation to have them unite into a larger unit of administration," Litts predicted.

Litts, who has been in the education field for more than 40 years, said, "As far as I am concerned I have had fairly good success over the years.

"However, I am at that age where I think some new blood will help the educational system larger areas of administration—which they apparently feel will improve our educational program.

"It would be my opinion, that after the districts get their schools in order under the four-unit system, it would take very little transformation to have them unite into a larger unit of administration," Litts predicted.

Litts sees the future of the county office as somewhat different than in past years. He said with the state's insistence on consolidation the Monroe office will most likely be merged with another county or counties, and that will be good."

"Our office might be merged with Pike County's. There is no reason it shouldn't be. The student population in Pike is only slightly larger than our smallest district—Pleasant Valley."

Reviewing major accomplishments while he was in office, Litts listed the following:

—School medical program.

Cradle To Grave Education, Psychologist's Philosophy

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John Abbruzzese is not a Socialist, however, he firmly believes in cradle to grave education for all persons who are in need.

Dr. Abbruzzese has been the Monroe County school psychologist for the past eight years.

During that time he has spent all his energies on his passion: "To provide this country with a total educational system."

"It is my aim to see that every child in this country gets as much education as he can absorb, despite any handicap. This includes a program for the gifted as well as the retarded."

Right now the following special education classes are under Dr. Abbruzzese's supervision:

Classes for severely retarded who are trainable but not educable, sight conservation, speech classes, mentally retarded who are educable, physically handicapped and a child guidance center.

17 Teachers

This year the county's special education program will operate with 17 teachers and a budget of $100,355.

Dr. Abbruzzese's part on this program consists of administration and supervision as well as individual testing and special class assignments.

He also assists in the interviewing and hiring of teaching personnel, teacher rating, curriculum, preparation of the budget and in the administration of expenditures.

Dr. Abbruzzese spends four-fifths of his time in Monroe County and one-fifth in Pike County.

In addition to the county operated special classes, he supervises nine classes for the mentally retarded but educable children run by the county's three joint and one union districts.

He said when he started his county job eight years ago the entire county had three special classes in operation: two at Stroud Union and one in East Stroudsburg. "Everything else has developed since," he observed.

He said the area of special education was given a boost in 1955 when the state General Assembly passed legislation making money available for mentally and physically handicapped classes.

"Two years ago this legislation was amended to include state reimbursement for all areas of special education, including the gifted student," Dr. Abbruzzese remarked.

$5,020,039 Budgets For Area Districts

STROUDSBURG — The four major school districts in Monroe County have approved 1964-65 budgets totaling $5,020,039. Eldred Twp., which is an independent district, will spend an additional $109,105.

Here's the way they break down, with some explanations.

Stroud Union School District, which has a uniform tax rate, is made up of Stroudsburg, Stroud Twp., Hamilton Twp., and Delaware Water Gap. Figures are given for the union as a whole.

In each of the other three districts, figures for the member municipalities are given only for money used for the support of the jointure. The school budget in each community will run somewhat larger.

Hershey Power Knocked Out

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — A power failure during a heavy thunderstorm blackened virtually this entire community of 6,851 for more than an hour yesterday night and threw 40 to 50 telephones out of service.

Kenneth Hatt, general manager and comptroller of the Hershey Electric Co., said the power went off at 8:11 p.m. and was restored at 9:30 p.m. The telephones, however, remained out of service overnight.

A spokesman at Hershey Amusement Park said lack of power had little effect there since the rain had sent most of its patrons scurrying to their homes.

BLAST DAMAGE — A classroom in the Middle Smithfield Elementary Schools shows the effects of the disastrous June 26 dynamite explosion near Marshalls Creek. The school building is located about 500 yards from the blast scene. The school is now undergoing a thorough investigation in an effort to determine whether it should be torn down or repaired. $2 Million-Plus
For School Buildups

STROUDSBURG — More than $2 million will be spent on improvements and new building in the East Stroudsburg Area and Stroud Union school districts during the coming year.

Stroud Union will spend the lion's share of the total with a $1,670,000 bond issue. The issue was floated to finance the building of a new junior high school and football stadium and renovations to the physics and chemistry laboratories and the auditorium in the high school.

East Stroudsburg has awarded a negotiated bond issue of $344,000 which is scheduled to be spent on renovating the old N. Courtland St. elementary school and re-seeding and re-conditioning the physical education area behind the high school and football field.

Stroud Union's new junior high school is being built on the site of Gordon Giffels Field.

June 26 Blast
Damaged
School

EAST STROUDSBURG — Of all the property damage caused by the June 26 Marshalls Creek blast none affected as many people as the serious damage inflicted on the Middle Smithfield Elementary School.

The school, located about 500 yards from the scene, was seriously damaged when the 15 tons of explosives went up and wrecked houses on the area surrounding the Pocono Republic Farm on Rt. 209.

The day after the explosion Walter McClelland of the Crowe Insurance Agency said the school appeared to be "a total loss." The building is insured for $286,000.

However, after detailed inspections by architects, the East Stroudsburg Joint School Committee decided to have the school gone over in minute detail in order to determine if the building should be razed or repaired.

Plans and specifications have been drawn up and a contract awarded for the work. The joint school committee will make a final decision when the results of the work are studied.

On the day of the blast the school looked like a total loss. All windows were blown out and furniture was scattered about the interior. The building's south wall appeared to be buckled.

Realizing the school would be out of commission for at least the first half of the coming school year, the joint committee set up temporary scheduling for Middle Smithfield students.

During July Carl Secor, district supervising principal, said the following rooms will be pressed into service to provide all-day classes for students:

The Bushkill Elementary School cafeteria, Smithfield Elementary School library, one room in the J. M. Hill School in East Stroudsburg and two rooms in the Middle Smithfield Presbytery Church.

In making the announcement, Secor said the arrangement is desirable "because it will leave two large groups of Middle Smithfield students near home."

The new building will include a planetarium and administrative offices.

Non-graded Instruction
The building is designed to allow the introduction of a non-graded type of instruction. If the new program is started junior high school students will be grouped according to ability and intelligence and not grouped in grades according to ages.

The building and renovation program, which was financed with no increase in taxes, new equipment for the physics and chemistry laboratories. Also new seats in the auditorium of the high school.

With Gordon Giffels Field being occupied by the junior high school, Stroud Union is building a new stadium and field house to the west of the old field.

The stadium will seat about 4,500 people and will have ample parking. The fieldhouse which will be at the stadium will include dressing rooms, concession stands, ticket booths and toilet facilities.

Feeling the pinch of over-crowded conditions the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Committee decided to fix up the old elementary school, located next to the high school building.

When the building is finished, at a cost of $310,000, it will house 13 classrooms and a library.

The first floor will have six classrooms, in addition to a health room with nurses station, kindergarten and toilets, the second floor will house seven classrooms, a library and a faculty room.

The old gymnasium will be converted into a multi-purpose room. The elementary school students will eat in the high school cafeteria.

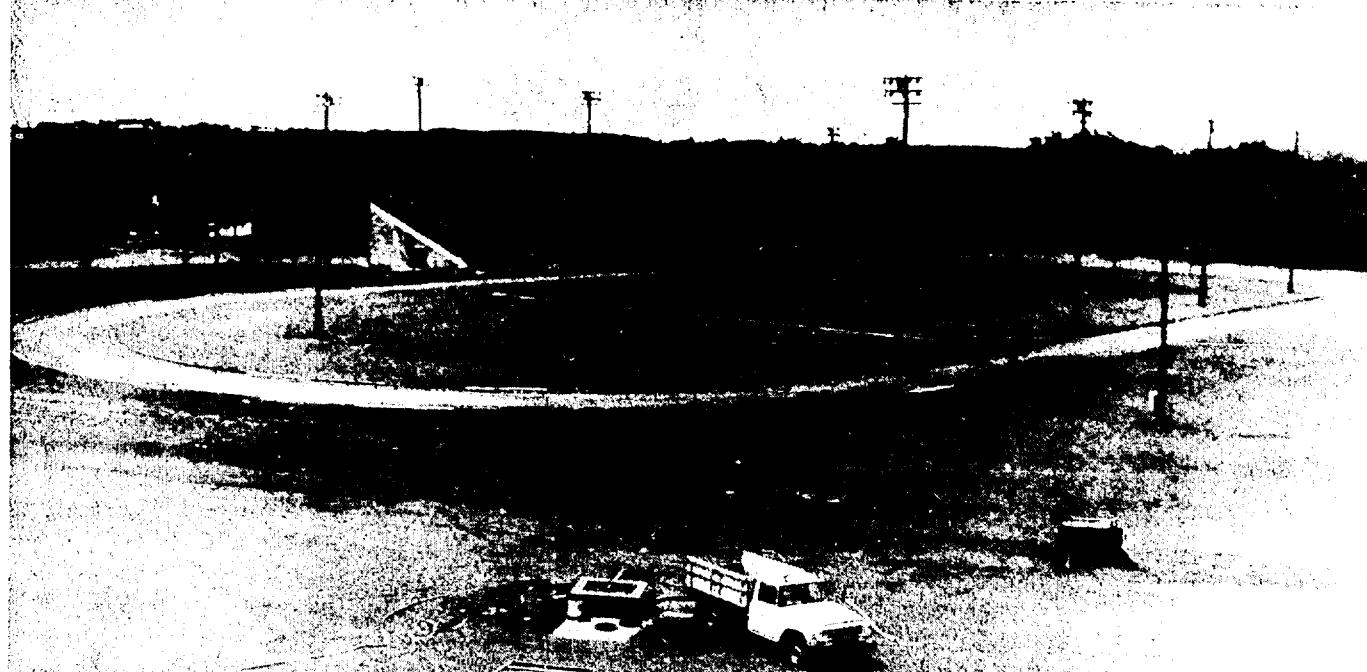

Plans also call for a new slate shingle roof for the building, blacktopping the athletic area and removing the existing bell tower.

East Stroudsburg has also completely re-conditioned the athletic area behind the high school and the district's football stadium.

Pleasant Valley Jointure's Teacher Manual Sets Goals

BRODHEADSVILLE — Wade P.V. Teacher's manual ... TC Mecum is a Latin phrase that means, according to Webster, a book or other thing that a person carries with him as a constant companion.

Wade Mecum is also the name of the 1964-65 Pleasant Valley High School teacher's manual. The manual was adopted at the last school board meeting. The board commended Wally Butz, Pleasant Valley principal, and the school administration for preparing "a fine teacher's manual which will improve the educational facilities of our school."

The forward to the manual states: "The information in this Wade Mecum has been compiled by the Administration for the purpose of assisting teachers and facilitating the administration of the high school."

"The increased complexities of the functions and the problems of secondary education demands faculty understanding and acceptance in the operation of our high school program and further, necessitates cooperation in their observance."

"This Wade Mecum is offered as a concise description of what the Administration and Board of Education deem to be the most modern, useful practices for the successful administration of our high school as a whole."

"Bulletins are issued on special subjects that require more detailed information. The students' handbook contains valuable information with which teachers should be familiar."

"Each teacher is expected to carry out the approved school's rules and regulations. The Administration will welcome helpful suggestions and constructive criticism."

The manual then listed school officials and gave the 1964-65 school calendar.

Cardinal Aim

The manual said the school's philosophy is based on this cardinal aim of education: "to develop in each individual the knowledge, interest, ideals, habits and powers whereby he will find his place and use that place to shape both himself and his society toward even nobler ends."

Seven steps were then given in order to achieve this philosophy.

Pa. Heart Assn. Lists Balance

STROUDSBURG — The Eastern Pennsylvania Heart Assn. has listed total income and balance from the previous year as $25,432 for the year ending June 30, 1964.

Almost $9,000 of this was a balance carried forward from 1963.

Expenses in 1964 totalled $15,281, including money given to heart charities.

This left a balance as of June 30, 1964, of $10,150.

A quarter of the money was allocated to the American Heart Assn. for researches and other purposes, and 15 per cent went to the Pennsylvania Heart Assn.

NAACP Meet To Talk Rally

STROUDSBURG — An "appreciation rally" to be held in Atlantic City on Sunday will be discussed tonight at 8 p.m. at the regular monthly meeting of the NAACP in the Monroe County YMCA.

Members of the local chapter of the NAACP will travel by bus to Atlantic City on the day before the opening of the Democratic National Convention and demonstrate their appreciation of the passage of the Civil Rights Bill.

Jesse Lynch, president of the local chapter, said that the group "wants to show the administration its appreciation for the measure."

Humane Society Meets Tuesday

HONESDALE — The Wayne County Humane Society will hold its next meeting Tuesday at the Honesdale City Hall.

On the agenda will be the aid request to the Wayne County Commissioners, and the reactivation of the Oiga Dassin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The agenda of the forthcoming meeting of the Federated Humane Societies of Pennsylvania will be reviewed. This statewide meeting will be held Sept. 16 and 17 at Beaver Falls.

Propane Truck Overturns

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A propane gas truck overturned yesterday at an intersection that borders nearby West Pittston and Exeter boroughs.

Police in a precautionary move, evacuated persons from homes in a half-block radius.

One man was taken to a hospital. But his name and condition were not immediately available.

osophy. The manual said "We will ever strive to develop within each child an awareness of the world about him by constantly emphasizing the privileges of the American way of life; the proper use of oral and written English; the understanding of himself, his rights and his responsibilities to others; the skills of the scientific processes of critical thinking and evaluating; the significance of ethical and spiritual values; the appreciation of great books and the arts; and the development of emotional stability and members."

physical well-being. In giving the school objectives the manual said "In order to establish our objectives we set our sights upon the student at graduation time, and turning our minds inwardly, we asked ourselves just what qualities we desire evident in a student when we stamp him alumnus."

Ten desired qualities were then listed.

The manual listed faculty members and their assigned subjects; home room assignments; and the functions of everyone concerned with the school by law or by common practice or by common sense."

The manual then gave the school time schedule; procedures to follow in case of emergency illness or injury; and school policies regarding use of the auditorium, gymnasium, and cafeteria.

"Each group has a sphere or area in which it is especially qualified to function and where individuals or the group may make decisions with a large amount of freedom — always provided there is no encroachment on the area of responsibility delegated to another group by their respective departments.

The manual points out four suggestions for growing professionally while teaching. The manual said "Whatever you do in this world, whether it be selling soap, keeping books, or teaching children, you cannot remain the same year after year."

"You either get better or you get worse. Teachers, even the best of them, face the constant danger of falling into a rut. The best way to avoid the rut is to keep growing."

The four suggested ways for teachers to keep growing were college and university courses; professional reading; interschool visitation and travel.

40 Opposite Ways

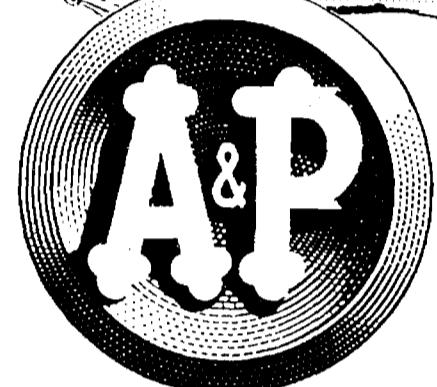

The manual went on to list 20 ways to destroy a school and 20 ways to build a school. It then gave policies on faculty meetings, professional meetings, teacher's absence and reimbursement, study halls, teacher management, standards of teacher objectives of the home room program and parlemen-try procedure. Next it gave suggestions for the organization of the home room, committee work, orientation, housekeeping, morning procedure, locker assignments, and listed teacher assignment in the cafeteria.

"We can do this if each of us recognizes his own responsibility to the entire faculty and will straighten out undesirable situations whenever and wherever they occur, in class and out. You as a teacher, have the authority to do this and I believe the more that this authority is used wisely, the more the student body will recognize that you have it."

Monroe Board Ready To Make Plans For Vocational School

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County School Board will determine how many students will be available to take advantage of the program.

"There is federal and state laws that will help us make these surveys. They make money available for use to hire a person trained in this area."

"They are doing this in Carbon County now and are getting to the point where they can do some pre-planning for building purposes," Litts said.

The county school board has been told that building and equipping such a school would plunge into formulating plans for a county vocational school once the present school reorganization controversy is out of the way, according to the county superintendent of schools.

"I am sure the county feels it can't do anything about vocational school until this reorganization is settled," John Litts said.

Litts said the first approach to a vocational-technical school would be to start surveying the areas where training is desired and determine how many students will be available to take advantage of the program.

Harold Albright, assistant state supervisor on vocational education for the Department of Public Instruction, said that while a county vocational school would cost in the neighborhood of $1 million, the state and federal governments would supply two-thirds of the cost.

The county board has passed a resolution favoring one attendance area for the county and indicated it was in favor of Albright doing more work on a possible vocational program.

The county must develop a county vocational school.

It would be my hope the county would start off with eight or ten areas of vocational-technical instruction and then increase the curriculum as demands indicate, Albright said.

"Courses of instruction in a county vocational school," Albright said, "would be selected by a general advisory committee made up of leaders from industry, labor and local government."

Using the eight state vocational schools in operation as a guide, Albright predicted 20 per cent of the county's tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades would attend a vocational school.

He said the county could be ready to build a vocational school in 18 months.

The DPI aid said he will talk to individual school boards when he is given the go ahead by the county board.

He explained 51 per cent of school board members must approve vocational education before his department can make surveys and studies in individual districts.

Would Pay Share

School districts taking part in a county vocational school would pay their share of the capital expenditure according to their market real estate value.

Albright said a vocational school would be staffed with tradesmen from various crafts and not with college graduates.

He explained 51 per cent of taxpayers a maximum of $250,000.

Students would spend one-half their time at the vocational school and the other half at their home high school.

"We want to prepare students who will have a saleable skill but we also want students who will be able to meet college requirements."

"A vocational school will provide an education for those students who do not intend to go to college. However, if a student

Mrs. Marcia Bloss

Miss Bonnie Gale Rice
3 Fulltime
Speech
Therapists

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County School Board employs three fulltime, certified speech therapists in an effort to spot and correct speech defects in the county's public schools.

The speech classes are run under the auspices of the county superintendent's office and are under the direction of John Abbuzzese, county psychologist.

The classes are designed to correct such defects and faulty sound (rabbit instead of rabbit), stuttering, voice disorders (high and low pitch) and any train that is different from normal speech.

The classes, which are held one-half hour each week in different county schools, are taught by Mrs. Marcia Bloss of Tannersville, Miss. Bonnie Gale Rice of Saylorsburg and Frank DiSimoni of Roseto.

This year the program will attempt to help 600 students with speech defects. The staff will work with a budget of $620.

The intelligence and age of students has little to do with the selection of students for the classes. The students are regular full-time students in the county's various public schools.

Dr. Abbuzzese is quick to point out this program is not a public speaking course. Every case is treated on an individual basis and the therapy consists of auditory training, practice, drill, use of mirrors.

Dr. Abbuzzese points out the whole program is a matter of imitation.

Every student in the county is screened when they enter school to determine if a speech defect is evident.

Students are arranged in groups of five, according to age, grade and defect.

The program has been very effective. We have fewer high school students with speech defects than when we started eight years ago. This is because we are able to catch 'em earlier.

Carry Corrections Home

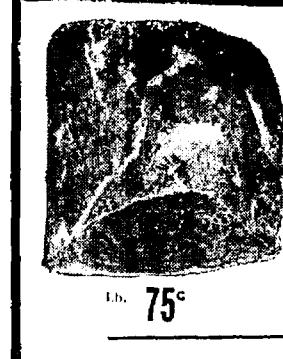

"Another lasting advantage of the program is the fact that students we correct carry these corrections home and are a good example for younger brothers and sisters," Dr. Abbuzzese remarked.

He said proof that the program is effective is the fact that while the load of students increases each year the percentage of students needing correction decreases.

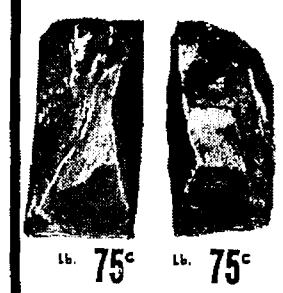

The state advances money for the program to the county school board at the beginning of each year.

Dr. Abbuzzese pointed out that the $26,620 stated to be spent this year, only about 20 per cent will be borne by the school districts taking part in the program.

Handicapped Schooled In County

STROUDSBURG — Special classes for the physical handicapped are part of the Monroe County School Board's program of "Total Education."

The county's public school students who are physically handicapped are provided with special classes every day of the week in a room in the East Stroudsburg High School football stadium.

The program is designed for students who cannot take part in a regular school program — students with muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, polio and cardiac disorders.

The program is under the direction of Dr. John Abbuzzese, county school psychologist, and is taught by teachers Robert McNulty of East Stroudsburg and Mrs. Barbara Gilpin of Stroudsburg and teachers aide, Mrs. Lillian Carlton of Delaware Water Gap.

McNulty said the 18 children in the class are given a regular educational program with consideration for their physical handicap.

In Wheel Chairs

He said most of the students are in wheel chairs or on crutches and are taught such things as how to walk up stairs.

The program consists of physical therapy, giving students their needed rest periods and a physical education program geared to the needs and limitations of the students.

The students are formed into two groups according to their handicap and are referred to the program by doctors and school faculties.

This year the handicapped program will spend $19,250, which will be advanced by the state. The districts are assessed according to the number of students who take part in the program.

McNulty pointed out the money received from the individual school districts in the county "nowhere approaches the total cost of the program."

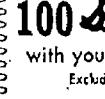

Districts sending students provide door to door transportation. The program is starting its fifth year. McNulty pointed out and the county provides such things as wheel chairs and physical therapy equipment.

"The program is effective, in that many of the students would not have been able to go to school otherwise. They would have been homebound," McNulty said.

Cy Barrett Says

'Caution' Is The Word

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.
DEAR CY:
We were transferred here the first of February. After selling our former home in Ohio, our current bank account is at $9,000 earning four and one-half per cent interest.

We are now renting an apartment and searching for a home in an older neighborhood. Nothing is available although we found one we liked when we arrived but couldn't purchase it because the deal became null when the property was not sold. Property by no book at our price range of $25,000.

Should we consider buying higher in a home of greater value or would it be better to keep looking? Please advise. The time is now to make a wise investment in a longer term. We have had many good schools, even though the town is known for the lack of public transportation.

Although we would like to move, we are not in a position to do so. Please advise. Are there any other steps we are overlooking?

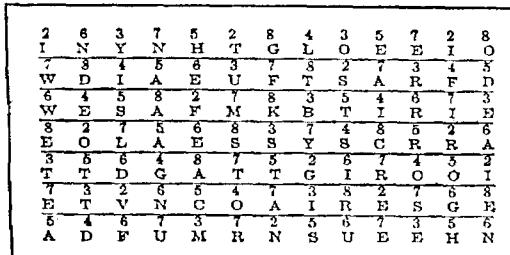

MRS. FAYE

DEAR MRS. FAYE:
We are looking for a suitable home to buy. We have no savings of any substantial value. The anticipated gain in eventual sale could switch to a substantial loss. Play it safe and buy in an established section where, when you want to sell, you can.

If a suitable home was found

Democratic Platform To Reflect LBJ Image

By Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON — How to put the LBJ brand on the Democratic party's platform without ignoring or slighting the Kennedy legacy will provide a real challenge to platform writers as they begin work on Monday.

Most of the "accomplishments" of the Johnson Administration concern legislative proposals or policy decisions initiated by President Kennedy, although Mr. Johnson could properly claim credit for the enactment of such long-stymied Kennedy measures as the Civil Rights Act, the tax reduction bill, and the mass transportation bill.

Democratic platform writers must also deal with a number of issues explicitly raised by Sen. Barry Goldwater and the Republican platform.

—Foreign Policy — Proclaiming "victory for freedom" as the minimum national goal, the GOP charges that "this Administration has sought accommodations with Communism without adequate safeguards and compensating gains for freedom." President Johnson, in recent remarks, has made clear his commitment to the dual goal of countering Communist aggression while seeking to minimize the chances of any major military conflict. The Democratic platform is unlikely to strike a different note.

—National Security — The Republican platform asserts that the Administration by failing to "originate a single new major strategic weapons system" and by "downgrading efforts to prepare defense against enemy ballistic missiles" has paved the way for "a potentially fatal parity of power with Communism instead of continued military superiority for the United States."

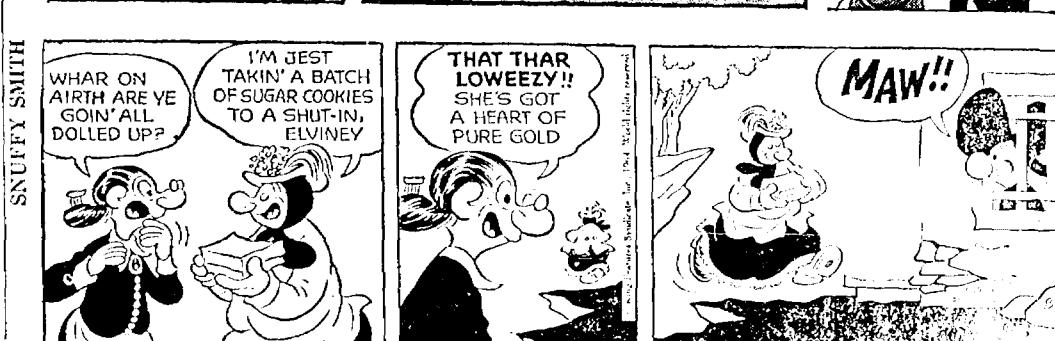

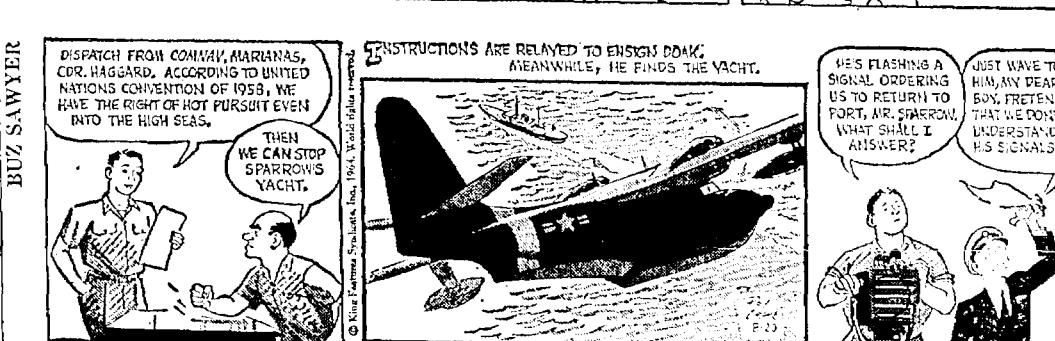

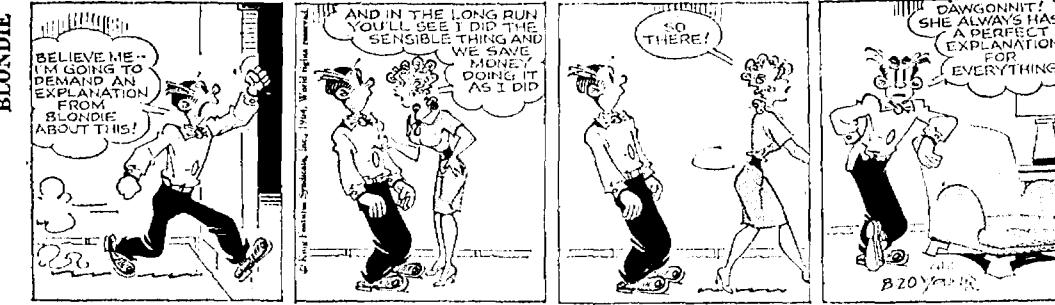

from a Democratic victory. The relatively austere Republican platform of 1964, adopted last month, still runs to more than 10,000 words.

Few if any specific pledges could be wedged into a document as brief as the President wants. And a bare-bones platform would sit poorly with the host of ethnic and economic interest groups accustomed to explicit recognition.

FFA Youth Top Breeder Of Holsteins

By Tom Wilson
Slate Belt-West End Reporter

BANGOR — Bill Bush, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bush of Miller Rd., Bangor RD 2, is one of the many boys in the Bangor-Pen Argyl area who are outstanding Future Farmers of America.

Not counting the present Blue Valley Farm Show, Bill has won 15 first prizes along with several second and third prizes with his Holsteins.

Bill entered four of them in four contests at this year's Blue Valley show, one each in the junior calf, the intermediate calf, the senior calf and the milking cow class contests.

He has eight purebred Holsteins registered in his name. Bill will be a senior at Bangor High School this year and has been a member of the Future Farmers of America since the 9th grade. He was in a junior agriculture club for two years before that.

He entered his first contest six years ago. It was sponsored by the 4-H Club and he took third prize. Since that time he has entered over 25 contests.

Bill said his eight Holsteins are worth "around $5,000." He has won over $200 in cash prizes plus ribbons and trophies as a contestant.

His last blue ribbon prior to Blue Valley was won at the Plainfield Farmer's Fair. One of Bill's entries, Bess, was grand champion and another, Bonnie, was reserve grand champion. The three other calves he entered took blue ribbons in their class.

At last year's Blue Valley Farm Show, one of Bill's calves was grand champion and every calf he entered won its category.

Asked how he managed to pile up such an impressive list of victories, Bill replied, "I started with top stock and from there I built up."

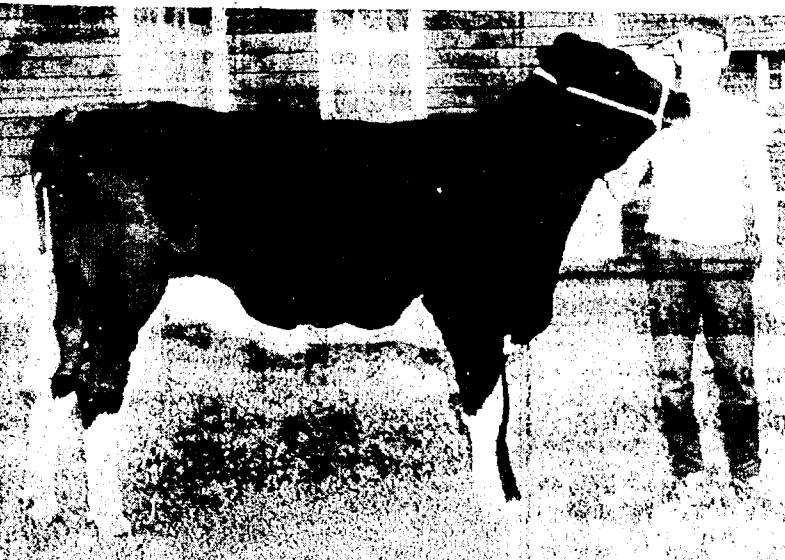

He said, "Some of the kids at school joke about me winning all the time, but none of them are really mad about it."

He gave credit to his father for teaching him most of what he knows, but said "the FFA helped a lot."

County Drought Called Disaster

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton requested that the county be designated a federal disaster area Tuesday because of prolonged dry weather in the area. In a letter to U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, Scranton requested that the county be designated a federal disaster area, which would permit farmers to take hay and pasture land from acreage held under the national conservation reserve program.

Crowds Jam Show Grounds Near Bangor

BANGOR — The Blue Valley Farm Show started with a bang yesterday. Loyd Williams, farm show president, said he expected a crowd of thousands for last night's opening.

The farm show grounds were a picture of frenzied activity, as boys and girls entering exhibits in the agriculture, industrial arts, or home economics divisions were making last minute preparations.

It was a common sight to see youngsters from under one year to high school age drinking soda pop and gobbling hot dogs or hamburgers.

Many had their pets, which they planned to enter in last night's pet parade contest. Carnival roundabouts added their clamor to the noise as they set up the kiddies rides.

Young voices rang out with excitement as the FFA members carried their trophies. Beaming faces greeted the viewer on all sides as young and old alike got into the spirit of things.

Williams and Rocco Drago, farm show business managers, were as busy as one armed paper hangers as they directed the different committees in charge of food, decorations, and exhibits. Williams even had his sister, Corrine Kern, crying as she peeled a huge sack of onions.

The crowd started arriving around noon in order to view the judging, and then stay on for the night's activities. The featured attractions for Wednesday night were the pet parade and TV star Bertie the Bunyip.

Queen Of Show To Be Crowned Saturday Night

BANGOR — The queen of the Blue Valley Farm Show will be the girl who receives the largest number of points for her entries in the home economics exhibits. The lucky girl will be crowned Saturday night.

This was reported by Mrs. Jeanne Calie, head of the home economics department at Bangor High School.

Mrs. Calie said the girls may enter any or all of the classes under the home economics exhibits. Entries will be eligible whether they were made in school or out of school as summer projects.

She said girls from the junior or senior high schools in Bangor or Pen Argyl, who have taken home economics classes, are eligible. They must have completed the seventh grade, she said.

Mrs. Calie said the home economics teachers try to cover child care, cooking, sewing, home management, and interior decorating, among other things, in their classes.

She stated girls that do not plan to enter college after high school usually take home economics classes in high school. But the courses are mandatory in junior high, she said.

Home economics teachers in Bangor Junior High School are Mrs. Doris Davis and Mrs. Sue Oller. The head of the home economics department at Pen Argyl High School is Mrs. Grace Samsom.

Industrial Arts Are Popular

BANGOR — The boys who are entering exhibits in industrial arts at the Blue Valley Farm Show have been well trained.

Pennsylvania has a state requirement that all junior high school boys take at least two periods of shop per week and both Bangor and Pen Argyl High Schools have more than adequate facilities for the boys.

Bangor High, for example, has two shops. One is for wood and plastic work, and the other is for metal work.

Students in industrial arts have five to 15 projects per grade they must complete. While in junior high they take only general shop, but once in the 10th grade the classes become more specialized.

In senior high industrial arts is an elective. It is a popular course, however, as the classes average 25 students per grade.

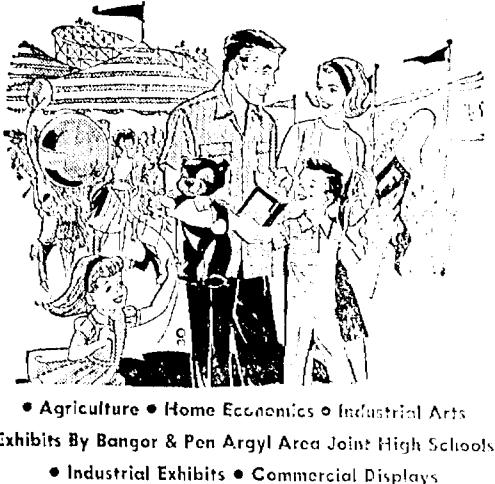

If a student elects to take the industrial arts course he must take 10 periods of shop a week. These periods may be spent in either the wood and plastics shop or in the metal shop.

The student would be required to take shop math in his junior year and technical science in his senior year. Or he could take mechanical drawing one and mechanical drawing two, which are electives for industrial arts students, for five periods out of the ten per week.

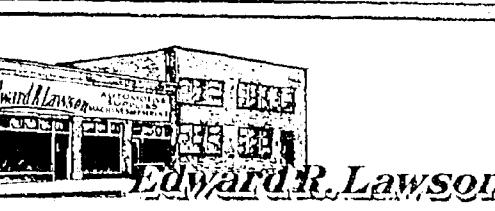

Head of the industrial arts department at Bangor High is Jay F. Young, and at Pen Argyl it is E. David Godshaw.

Better Education Bangor Joint Aim

BANGOR — The superintendent of Bangor area schools after one year's experience is looking forward to improving the overall educational pattern and operating under a nine-man school board as one district.

Dr. William S. Ricker said in the coming school year will be spent taking the wrinkles out of curriculum schedule that was revised last year after a complete study of grades kindergarten through twelve.

He also said, from an administration standpoint, it will be easier to operate in a district that was reorganized from a seven-member joint district to a single administrative unit.

The old district was called the Bangor Joint School District and was comprised of individual school boards from Bangor, East Bangor, Roseto and Portland boroughs and Upper and Lower Mt. Bethel and Washington townships.

The new district is made up of the same areas but has been merged into a single school district.

Part Of County Plan

The move was made as part of Northampton County's plan for school reorganization as mandated by state law.

As a result of reorganizing in advance of the July 1, 1966, mandated date, the new Bangor Area School District will receive an additional payment of $300 per teaching unit from the Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Ricker said he expects this incentive payment to amount to about $35,000.

He said the district now pays taxes at a uniform rate of 22 mills on real estate and $15 per capita. Under the old joint district, each township or borough had its own tax rate.

Under reorganization, he pointed out five of the seven districts were able to lower taxes. The only districts to raise taxes were Bangor Borough, which went up two mills, and Roseto, which went up one.

Dr. Ricker said one of the STROUDSBURG — Roger Dunning, Stroud Union's elementary supervisor, yesterday announced the district will make language courses in French and German available this year in the fifth and sixth grades.

Dunning said the courses will be available to all students and will be designed to acquaint students with the languages.

He said this will be done by conversation. The courses are designed to make the young children aware of other cultures, he added.

Work Fulltime

German and French teachers have been hired and will work fulltime in the elementary schools.

With language courses starting in the fifth grade, Stroud Union will be able to offer its students eight straight years of either German or French.

Holdup Man Uses Bicycle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A holdup man on a bicycle outraced two tellers on foot yesterday after holding up the Colonial Central Savings & Loan Association.

The association reported the man escaped with $376. Pedaling furiously, swinging in and out of heavy traffic, he outdistanced the tellers who chased him two blocks through the downtown area.

Police said association employees told them the man leaned his bike—a black, English type—against the front wall of the office, and entered, carrying a brown paper bag.

He walked casually to a teller, Miss Sandra Campolongo, and told her:

"I want it all."

She said he drew a small pistol, but did not point it at her.

"Are you kidding?" she said she asked.

The gun then was pointed at her, she said.

"Put the money in the bag," she said the man told her.

Miss Campolongo said the man was a Negro, about 26, 5-feet-7, and 155 pounds. He wore tan khaki pants and a brown and white checked shirt, she said.

Bank Robber Admonished

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—U.S. District Judge A. Leon Higginbotham Jr., admonishing an admitted bank robber for failing to follow the example of his minister-father, yesterday sentenced Dennis Myers Jr., 25, to four years in prison. He told Myers "your father . . . is a very fine man but evidently his message did not get through to you."

READY TO ROLL—These school buses have been cleaned and tuned-up and are ready to transport part of the more than 9,000 students who will attend Monroe County's elementary and secondary schools. School buses in the county travel thousands of miles each year and the cost of transporting school children is a large part of each school district's budget.

Wind Gap Legion To Install Aides

WIND GAP — Wind Gap American Legion Post 724 recently made plans for the annual joint installation banquet of the post and the auxiliary officers.

"As an example," he continued, "a science course has many facets related to health. The science teacher will point out these similarities but will not go into them in detail. The health teacher knows what is taking place in the science course and is ready to teach the related health points."

He said all teachers in the program are aware what fellow teachers are doing and as a result can change the area they are teaching to conform with a general overall pattern.

Needs Teacher Cooperation

The superintendent cautioned, however, that many programs can look good on paper but teacher co-operation is necessary to bring them successfully into the classroom.

"You definitely need teacher co-operation to institute a successful program. All teachers must do a little extra and must be willing to give a little and take a little," he pointed out.

He said he inherited a basically sound staff and school system from his predecessor.

"My aim is to improve upon what we have. When we have the facilities I want to expand the curriculum as much as possible. Especially at the secondary level. By this I mean instituting new elective courses," he said.

Dr. Ricker said with the constant flow of new innovations in the field of education, constant revision and review of curriculum and study procedures is necessary.

"However, I still firmly believe in the old three R's," he ended.

Eyesight Concern In Monroe

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County special education program does not overlook the student who is afflicted with poor eyesight.

The Monroe County School Board, in co-operation with Carbon County, holds classes for six children who have eye defects. Charles Prutzman of Lehighton administers the program which is held in the school the needy student attends.

Prutzman said the program is geared for the partially sighted youngster. Teacher aids used are typewriters with extra large type, projection magnifiers, a talking book machine and books with large print.

The information he gathers is reported back to the classroom and also to the student's home.

All students in the sight conservation classes also attend regular classes and are supplied with things to aid their education as reading glasses, study stands and night-lare lights.

Cancer Society In New Office

STROUDSBURG — The local office of the American Cancer Society in Monroe County has moved to its new offices at 509 Sarah St. in Stroudsburg.

Beginning September 9 the new hours will be Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9 to 12 p.m. and 1 to 3 p.m., according to Mrs. William L. Hoffman, executive director.

The new capital of Yemen, San'a, is a city of 80,000 surrounded by mud-brick walls.
